Asset Allocation Changes and Market Commentary

The SCM Investment Team made no changes during April. But we continue to have keep a very close eye on currencies.

Towards the end of 2018 we significantly reduced the exposure to unhedged US$ denominated debt within the Portfolio. The Pound fell every day last week following the collapse of Brexit cross-party talks, with markets more worried by the increasing chances of a no deal Brexit or General Election. As the chart below shows, the Pound is close to its post 2000 lows against the US$:

According to purchasing power parity (PPP), an economic theory that compares different countries' currencies through a "basket of goods" approach, Sterling looks undervalued on a medium-term basis against the US$:

	Spot Rate	Est PPP (Consumer)	Est PPP (Producer)	Est PPP (Big Mac)	Est PPP (OECD)
GBP Vs USD	1.27	1.33	1.62	1.65	1.38

The Portfolio continues to hold slightly under 13% in local currency denominated emerging market bonds. Many of these currencies have been hit by recent developments in the US-China trade negotiations and also look undervalued. The graph below shows the recent performance of the MSCI EM Currency Index:
